

POCKET DESIGNS IS YOUR SOLUTION

Pocket Designs, LLC is a custom software development company that has been creating custom software solutions since 2004. We specialize in developing mobile computing solutions for PDAs, Smartphones, and PocketPCs, as well as offering traditional development services such as desktop development, web development, database programming/administration, and corporate intranet/extranet development. We are proud of our history, reputation and ability to put forward products and services that exceed client expectations while remaining honest and fair to deal with.

Our innovative business model affords us the ability to provide reliable and professional services at a cost that is much closer to overseas outsourcing than most domestic solutions developers can match. We are, however, proud to be a US-based company that performs 100 percent of its work right here at home in the United States. When you work with Pocket Designs you not only will communicate effectively with native English speakers, but you also will deal with individuals who carry the same business hours as you and conduct business the same way that you do.

So what separates Pocket Designs from the rest? We take a sincere and honest approach to being a professional development company that respectfully keeps your best interests in mind. We strive not only to satisfy our clients' requirements, but also to help them improve their businesses with unique products and features backed with dependable service. The only time we are truly successful is whenever our clients are successful.

The products we deliver are targeted to be in tune with the needs and expectations of your real-world end-users while also being developed in a timely and cost-effective manner. At Pocket Designs, we listen to our clients' ideas, relate to their personalities, adopt their specific needs, communicate effectively and deliver fantastic results.
